NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The market started off this morning with indications that the reactionary period had come to an end. Prices in the rall-road list advanced aimost without exception under the stimulus of higher prices for Americans in London and a sharp demand for People's Gas on reports that the dispute with the Indiana Gas Company has been adjusted. Severe depression in some of the specialtics, checked the upward movement. The bears sold the list freely and their sonfidence was justified by the decline of prices. There was subborn resistance to the decline in some of the rallroad stocks, but prices generally fell below yesterday's low point and dullness intervened. The market was one of specialties during the greater part of the lay, and some sharp declines were shown by quite a number. WORK OF THE GRAND JURY. Two Men Indicted for Illicit Liquor Selling.

Two Men Indicted for Illicit Liquor Selling.

John J. Leonard, a well known sation keeper in Phoebus, was yesterday indicted for selling llquor on Sunday. The offense, it is alleged, was committed on April 10. Leonard kept a llquor establishment on Mallory street, near the entrance of the Soldier's Home.

A true bill was found against Benjamin Boyd for selling llquore. Boyd's place of business is on Mellen, Street, the principal thoroughfare of Phoebus. Other persons indicted were Charles of the Soldier's Home.

A true bill was found against Benjamin Boyd for following assaulting Mrs. Carrie Lancer on the night of September 7; Morris Murphy, for a felonious assault upon Henry Picking, on September 7; Horris Murphy, for a mannamed Deitz, on August 18; Eli Downing, for feloniously assaulting James Later, and William Fletcher, for skilling Roy A. Holden on the night of September 7; Fletcher is the man who walked out of Justice Furness court last week after learning that he action have to go to jail to await the action of the grand jury, find, upon investigation, that a great deal of the disturbance in Phoebus is occasioned by allowing lewd women to frequent the promise for the grand jury, find, upon investigation, that a great deal of the disturbance in Phoebus is occasioned by allowing lewd women to frequent the promise for the grand jury, find, upon investigation, that a great deal of the disturbance in Phoebus is occasioned by Alback More.

KICKS ON A WORD.

Reformers Complain About a Statement in the Press.

A well known gelteman who is interested in the movement for better local government enters a complaint against the use of the word "most" in yesterday's article concerning the prospects of the reformers in the statement to which objection is made was as follows: "The reformer will at most hold the balance of power," etc. The word used by the writer was "least," but by that mysterious process known only to the intelligent compositor, it was turned into "most."

"The reform movement will do more, than hold the balance of power," said the gentleman referred to. "Every man the reformers surped to. "Every man the reformers surped to. "Every man the reformers surped to." It is not a movement gotten up by fanatical temperance men or church people. It is not in any sense the product of any organization, but simply a step to secure the enforcement of the law and good government in the county. Of course, the reformers will hammer away at the salons and other dens of iniquity in the county, and they will see to it that hob-nobing with law-breckers is broken up, that the county but they won't launch out on a one-sided campaign."

THAT COLORED PAYMASTER.

Members of Company D. Fourth Virginia Regiment, who are new at home on furlough, say that the men of Gen Lee's corps are at the point of open re-hellion on account of having to receive their money from a colored paymaster. A storm of indignation is said to have swept through the regiments composing the great camp when it became known that a colored man held the position. It is reported that a number of men have announced their intention of declining te hands of the colored paymaster. A ather remarkable feature of the affai is found in the fact that the soldiers hose indignation is most rampant are larthern man.

is taken unless their expenditure is noticeably extravagant, and then a friendly interest is taken in them and their description sent to Scotland Yard.

It is almost impossible to conceive the thoroughness of the French police spy system. You never know who is a mouchard in Franca. The waiter who serves you, the man who shaves you, the cocher who drives you, are as likely as not to be in the police pay. They know everything, and they know averybody. Here is an instance that occurred to a friend of mine only the other day. He received from the prefecture an order to appear on the following day. So far as he knew, he had done mothing particularly out of the way, and even if he had he had done it unintentionally. The magistrate invited him into his private room and put him at his case at once by explaining that the affair did not concern answers were perfectly satisfactory, and in leaving he turned to the magistrate and said laughingly, "Now, why don't you ask me something about myself?" "But I know all about you," he replied, "Would you like to know what you did on any particular day within the last three months?"

last Friday week. I haven't the remotest knowledge as to what happened."

The magistrate turned over his dossler and replied: "You got home at half past 2 in a cab that you lad taken at the Madeline. You rode out on your bicycle at half past 9. You lunched at the Cafe de l'Esperance."

disguised out of all recognition, the task was a difficult one. One afternoon two of these detectives noticed a well dressed inan and suspected him. One of them took off his overcoat and hung it up side by side with his. A few minutes later they got up to leave, and the wrong coat was put on. In the most fluent and polito French the suspected man pointed out the error. The mouchard took it off and looked at the name of the maker and savthat it was a London firm. They had found their man.—Today.
